

This course provides an understanding of ethical and legal issues inherent in the provision of health services. The course considers issues related to disclosure and confidentiality, provider relationships, exclusive contracts, restrictive covenants, and

GOAL B:

Examine the interrelationships of the legal system within the structure, organization, and functions of the health care delivery system.

Learning Objectives: The student will:

organization, and functions of the health care delivery system.

- B-2 Analyze legal and ethical issues within the context of individuals and collective value systems and the organizational structure, mission and culture of the health care delivery systems.

GOAL C:

Explore the legal aspects of health care such as the right of privacy, social welfare, antitrust, corporate reorganization, institutional liability, malpractice and professional peer review.

Learning Objectives: The student will:

C-1 Explain the right of privacy, social welfare, antitrust, corporate reorganization, institutional liability, malpractice and professional peer review.

C-2 Explain the inherent limitations of the legal system to address and resolve conflict and the role of ethical analysis in the health care delivery system.