

CTE Assessment and Course Construction

EDC 406/ MCT 6406

- A headset or microphone.

The purpose of this course is to assist vocational-technical teachers in learning how to develop their courses to meet the workplace needs and satisfy curriculum standards, as well as the Delaware content standards. An introduction to student organizations and to key safety specific technical skills.

- Understand the history of CTE
- Understand the relationship between CTE curriculum and the academic skills of CTE students.
- Understand the orientation, justification, focus, and expected outcomes of CTE curriculum for a diverse group of students.
- Understand the benefits of CTE programs in the community.
- Understand the seven major components of the "Performance-Based Instructional Design System
- Understand the core elements of instructional design
- Identify the curricular relationships of standards and assessment.
- Define processes for collecting and assessing school-related data.
- Assessment development both formative and summative
- Rubric development and use

